Homecoming Plans Announced

Plans for the 1963 Homecoming, November 8-10, have been announced by Dr. Harold Reed, President of the College. The calendar of events begins with a special Homecoming Chapel on Friday, November 8. Mr. Paul Wells, Business Manager of Eastern Nazarene College and a member of the class of 1949 will deliver the Homecoming message. At this time, the Homecoming queen also will be announced and will be introduced along with her court.

Activities will continue Friday afternoon with a band concert at 2:00 p.m. presented by Olivet's Concert Band in the Quadrangle directly in back of the library. The highlight of the weekend's activities will come Friday evening at the annual Tip-off basketball game between the "O" Club and the Alumni. The

Church Initiates Student Foreign Evangelism

Two to Represent Olivet

To stimulate world-wide missionary interest among the students of Olivet and other youth of the denomination, the Church of the Nazarene has initiated an important new venture—the Nazarene Evangelistic Ambassadors Crusades.

College young people shall serve on two teams, each to visit one English-speaking field and two Spanish-speaking fields in evangelistic campaigns to be conducted July 1 to August 9, 1964.

Two male students will be chosen to represent Olivet in this historic endeavor. Each team will consist of seven young people, one evangelist, one director and one evangelistic singer.

The Ambassadors are to serve two purposes: to gather first-hand knowledge and vision of missionary work in order to promote a greater interest among Nazarene youth, and to provide an evangelistic impact in strategic areas.

Countries to be visited next summer include Trinidad, Guatemala, and Mexico, by Team no. 1, and British Guiana, Puerto Rico, Nicaragua, by Team no. 2.

Campaigns will be organized by the Mission Council and national pastors of the Church of the Nazarene in the area. Plans suggested by the Department of Evangelism for city-wide revival crusades are to be utilized.

Gas Firm Donates Chemistry Burners

The chemistry department of Olivet Nazarene College was recently given 90 burners by the Northern Illinois Gas Company.

The presentation was made Friday, October 11, by J. E. McCarthy, Northern Illinois Gas Commercial engineer, and by W. E. Land, the Gas company's district superintendent.

Officially receiving the gift were Dr. Harold W. Reed, President of the College, and Dr. Clarence Grothaus, chairman of the division of natural sciences, and professor of chemistry.

The sixty Bunsen burners and the thirty Meker burners are to be used in laboratory work in the chemistry department.

Dr. S. S. White, Others Lecture

A Seminar of Holiness Doctrine sponsored by the National Holiness Association in conjunction with Olivet Nazarene College was held on the campus Thursday according to Dr. John Cotner, Chairman of the Department of Philosophy and Theology and co-chairman of the event.

The seminar began at 9:00 a.m. with devotions led by Dr. Kenneth Geiger, President of the National Holiness Association and co-chairman of the seminar. The program included the presentation of four papers on Holiness. The first entitled "The Motive for Holiness" was presented at 9:15 by Dr. Roy S. Nicholson, Professor at Central Wesleyan College at Central, South Carolina. The second was presented later in the morning by Dr. Stephen S. White, Professor at Olivet and was entitled "Sinlessness in Act, Sinlessness in Human Nature, and Sinlessness and the Power of Pentecost."

Following a recess for lunch two more papers were presented. They included "Self-Deception in the Sanctified Life" by Dr. Orville S. Walters, a medical doctor from Urbana, Illinois and "Clarification (Holiness Doctrine) from the Classroom" by Dr. Kenneth Grider, Professor at Nazarene Theological Seminary in Kansas City, Missouri. Discussion followed each of the four papers and a period of general discussion concluded the seminar program.

The seminar was designed to be especially helpful for ministerial students, pastors and educators. There was no registration fee.

What Other Colleges Are Doing

From the REVEILLE ECHO, Bethany Nazarene College:

A new cultural series, to feature famous people in the arts and sciences, began October 17 with a lecture by Herbert Philbrick, noted author of "I Led Three Lives." Other lyceum programs will be given by Lt. Col. Thane Minor, staff officer to the joint chiefs of staff, and Dr. Walter Judd, former U. S. Senator and missionary.

From the CRUSADER, Northwest Nazarene College:

Eight new professors have joined the faculty of NNC. (Continued on Page Two)

Olivet Installs Electronic Computers

The age of electronics has come to Olivet. Just prior to fall registration six new IBM machines were installed in the basement of the library. They will be moved to the ground floor of the administration building when the remodeling is completed.

One of these machines with a keyboard similar to a typewriter is used to punch the cards. A sorter separates stacks of cards into different categories. A collator can match different stacks so information can be used from both. A tabulator gives the answer. It can be connected to a reproducer which updates the files as the tabulator does the tabulating. The sixth machine is an interpreter which reads the information punched on the cards and prints it along the top of the cards.

The machines are now being used for analyzing the science building fund drive, billing and making receipts. By July of 1964 the entire bookkeeping and filing system will be changed to the punch-card system.

Science Fund Drive Nears Completion

Pledges toward the financing of Olivet's new science building have now exceeded $830,000, according to the Rev. Donald Gibson, Vice-President in charge of Field Services.

This announcement was made recently following completion of the canvass of the Chicago Central District of the Church of the Nazarene. It is hoped that the goal of $1 million can be reached by Jan. 1.

Those churches canvassed on the Chicago Central District pledged a total of more than $45,000. Their goal was $33,500.

Fund raising to date can be broken down into the following categories: $101,536 from Kankakee businessmen, $260,035 from out-of-town businessmen and $469,735 from the church-to-church campaign over the Central Educational Zone.

Other districts to be canvassed yet include Central Ohio, Eastern Michigan, Southwest Indiana, and Indianapolis in that order.

Administrators, faculty and staff members, and students are all contributing their services on weekends in the science building fund-raising drive.

According to Rev. Gibson, ground breaking for the new $1 million building is planned for the spring of 1964.

A Forward Look...

by Bob Kirkpatrick

(Student Body President)

John Lunsford is the chairman of an Election Procedures Committee of the Student Council. This committee is investigating a proposed change for the nominations for student body president and proposed improvements over present balloting methods in all school elections. Another matter which has been given serious consideration is whether or not first semester students should be allowed to vote in an all school elections.

In this article I would like to take time to point out a weakness which I see in the election of the student body president. The common feeling on campus is that if you have aspirations for the job you're just the man we DON'T want! But isn't this a little inconsistent? In every other area we're told to set our goal for the top and work toward that end.

Now as never before, I am able to see the advantage a person would have if he had had his eye on this job all along.

If the nominations were held so that those who wanted to run would have to get a certain percentage of the student body to sign their petition, then these would be submitted to the Student Council which would choose two candidates to run for office.

If something similar to this were passed the student body would always be assured of having someone in office who wanted the job bad enough to work for it and someone with enough ideas to convince others that he deserved it. Please understand that I'm writing this article in order to help us to always have a qualified man in this position and to keep personal prejudices and jealousy out of the picture as much as possible.

dispensaries, Bible schools, etc., will be arranged by field superintendents to acquaint the teams with the missionary work conducted there.

During the evangelistic campaigns, the young people will be used in music, testimony, literature distribution, and visitation under the guidance of the director and field superintendent.

Transportation and housing costs of students shall be jointly financed by the General Nazarene Young People's Society and the colleges.

According to Willie Dishon, last year's student body president who was active in the formation of this program, applications will soon be made available to interested Olivet men. Sophomores and juniors are particularly urged to seriously consider this challenge, recognizing the following important qualifications:

- Call to a special Christian service;
- Stability in Christian experience;
- Participation in student activities;
- Participation in Christian service;
- Scholastic acceptability;

f. Talent in music, and speech;

g. Social adaptability.

Dishon added, "Participation as an Ambassador will entail much responsibility and hard work. Students will not be taking a summer vacation or a leisure trip. Olivet's Ambassadors will be representing our student body and will need to promote considerable interest upon returning from the campaigns."

Nominations to Nazarene Evangelistic Ambassadors shall be made by a committee in each college consisting of the college president, the dean of students, the faculty sponsor of the Missionary Band, the student body president and the chairman (in Olivet's case) of the Christian Service Council.

Nominations equal to twice the number of team members to be selected shall be presented to the Nazarene Evangelistic Ambassador's Committee of the Department of Foreign Missions who shall confer with the Executive Secretary of the Department of Foreign Missions and the Executive Secretary of N.Y.P.S. in the final selection of team members.

Young Republicans Club Organized

Dale F. Boulton

The newest organization on campus is the recently-formed Young Republicans Club.

The club evolved from the desires of a number of students and some of the faculty. It was felt by these people that understanding of the American political scene would be the result of belonging to a political club, and it was felt by these persons that the philosophy of the Republican party is largely congruent with their own political views and their relationships with Christian-centered logic or sound reasoning.

This hard core or nucleus for the Young Republicans Club was made up of Ken Armstrong, Wayne Hayes, Fred Wenger, Thelma Blair, Dorothy Ralph, and Professor Strickler. This group attended various local (Kankakee area) Republican party meetings, and the students sensed a need to promote a political club on campus.

The purpose of the club as set down in the constitution is as follows:

Section 1. To orientate Christian young people in the field of politics and to make them of service to God and their country.

Section 2. To develop all Young Republicans on the campus into an intelligent, aggressive, and cooperative Republican group.

Section 3. To provide through its organization a means to encourage participation in the activities of the Republican party.

Section 4. To promote in every honorable way the platform and candidates of the Republican party.

Section 5. To provide the student body the means for getting a practical political education."

There are two immediate outcomes which I see as coming from membership in the club. Of course there are many others, but the two which I am referring to are very important.

The student will receive a valuable insight on just what forces apply to political groups and the manner in which they handle them. An example of this would be selling pineapples to Texans. The Texans pressure a candidate for office to get them pineapples at a cut-rate price in exchange for votes. How the candidate plans to appease the varying factions and still maintain enough integrity to win the office that he is seeking presents some very interesting problems, and the way to see the solution is through first-hand knowledge.

The other immediate advantage to membership in the club is an awareness of the whys and wherefores of the party's philosophy. We are all guilty of failing to defend our party logically. When someone accosts us with a barrage of barbs at our political beliefs, we are prone very often to retort irrationally.

As a consequence of our irrationality, our temperatures rise, hearts beat faster, and our thoughts become twisted and lost while the opposition smiles smugly at how little we know about our own party's philosophy.

Of less immediate value to us but of more value to others is the notion of serving the community. By door-to-door canvassing, the community is made aware of a candidate's willingness to get work done. This awareness in turn stimulates interest in the public to find out more about the candidate, and through proper presentation by the door-to-door "salesman," a greater interest is placed in the public's vision of the democratic process which we believe in. Dedication to a cause inspires the worker and those who are being told of the cause.

The usual reaction by the majority of persons who are often called to serve on a political committee is, "What can I do? I am only one person." Using an axiom from geometry, "The whole is the sum of all its parts," we can see that if we remove one part, we do not have the whole.

By Line...

"Training future ministers is not the most important educational function of Olivet College." That's quite a strong opinion to be expressing less than a week after a great revival campaign, but as Dr. W. Purkiser invited us to do just two weeks ago, let's examine the alternatives.

If training ministers is not the most important function, what is? The most obvious answer and probably the most correct one would be the training of outstanding Christian laymen. Not to underestimate the importance of the minister, it is not he who will save the world. It is not the minister who will make the church grow. It is not the minister who will witness to the world. It is the Christian laymen.

There are several legitimate reasons for this, the most logical being that there are so many more laymen than ministers that the laymen will naturally come in contact with more people. This is obvious but the real reason goes much deeper than that. The minister is expected to live a holy life and to offer his witness to the world. He is obligated in the world's sight to live above the normal man. On the other hand, the dedicated Christian laymen is a unique type of bird that really impresses the lost of the world. A laymen's witness is worth the witnesses of three ministers and is much more effective.

Olivet's million dollar investment in a new Science Building is a firm proof of the need for more Christian scientists. The fact that a large percentage of Olivet's students is preparing for public school teaching is a clear indication of the important need for more Christian teachers. The fact that Olivet continues to enlarge its curriculum to include more and more areas of study is a sure sign that we are beginning to realize more and more that while we certainly need more and better educated ministers of the gospel, the crying need of the world today is in the area of strong, dedicated, Christian laymen.

We at Olivet needn't look far to see the truth in this statement. Look at your history professor and wonder how much more he could be making if he were teaching at a larger college or university. Look at your science professor and wonder what type of job he gave up or turned down to come to Olivet to teach in a Christian atmosphere.

These men and women have dedicated themselves to the task of presenting to the world capable leaders in all fields of endeavor. It is up to you and me to see that "they shall not have sacrificed in vain."

Ministerial Fellowship

Tour Nazarene Headquarters

Members of the Ministerial Fellowship visited the general headquarters of the Church of the Nazarene in a trip to Kansas City, Missouri, Thursday and Friday, October 3 and 4.

Nearly thirty prospective ministers made the trip along with Dr. Ralph Perry, sponsor of the Fellowship. Many took the trip to see the Nazarene Theological Seminary, where several plan to attend after graduation.

The group began its visit actually Friday morning by attending classes and chapel at the Seminary, meeting a number of professors and students. At noon the Olivetians were guests of the Nazarene Publishing House at a dinner, followed by a film showing their publishing operation.

Friday afternoon the Fellowship group toured the General Headquarters and the new General Board Building, meeting many of the general executives of the denomination.

In the evening Dr. Mendell Taylor, professor of church history, spoke at a banquet given for Olivet students and alumni at the Seminary. His topic was "Purposes of the Seminary."

In summary Ken Marckel, the Ministerial Fellowship president, reported: "Everyone commented that their outlook on the church was 100% increased."

After staying in the homes of Seminary faculty and staff members and Olivet alumni for the night, the ministerial group returned to Olivet Saturday morning.

nor of Michigan, George Romney, said that the Young Republicans Clubs of Michigan were largely responsible for his election, because they passed out literature, debated rationally, and were dedicated to a cause.

Olivet Nazarene College's Young Republicans Club is an opportunity to see democracy in action, to belong to a nationally recognized organization, to meet outstanding speakers, be of aid in promoting democracy, and for some will be the opportunity to be delegates to the state and national Young Republican conventions.

This is an active club, and there is a place of service for everyone. I would urge you to investigate the possibilities of belonging to the Young Republican's Club. If you are interested, contact Wayne Hayes, Fred Wenger, Thelma Blair, or Dorothy Ralph, and they will be most happy to assist you.

Several members of Platonian Philosophical Society will be attending sessions of the annual philosophical conference at Wheaton College (Ill.) November 1 and 2.

Christian philosophers and students of philosophy from many schools throughout the country will convene, Dr. Arthur F. Holmes, director of philosophy at the host school, has announced.

Support Your Missionary Project

Will we, students on a holiness campus, fail in our missionary project? It appears to be thus for each week our missionary offering has been less. We have a limited time in which to reach our goal. We must give more per week or fail. If 1,000 students will give a dime per week for thirty weeks or three dollars for the school year we will surpass our goal. How about you? Is a dime per week or three dollars for the school year too much? Is it really a sacrifice? "Remember: sparse sowing, sparse reaping; sow bountifully, and you will reap bountifully." Musical NOTES

It was a rough day. The French teacher had mixed you up on the verbs until one would think you were speaking Greek. And that Bible test!

It seemed as if everything was going wrong today. Studying hadn't been done as it should have been done. So now there was only one thing left to calm your nerves—practice music.

Piano and voice lessons would be coming up soon and both your fingers and vocal chords needed their exercise. Having packed Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, and vocal exercise books under your arm, it was off to the only practice rooms available — those at Goodwin Hall.

About a hundred yards from Goodwin those strange noises, only understood by music majors, became audible. That is the sound of twenty pianos playing at the same time, all playing something different. Now at Goodwin you entered and were overcome with the sounds of too many sonatas and musical masterpieces. Grasping the rail, you went upstairs in hopes that you would find peace and quiet in a room there. But in every room it was the same story—full! !

Could it be that everyone wants to practice at the same time, or is it possible that there just isn't enough room? What to do about it? GRIPE. Period.

The time was nearly 7:00 p.m., October 12. All was in a hushed state of expectation when, suddenly, there came the first dynamic chords of "The Fairest of the Fair," telling us that our first band concert had begun. The young and old alike were seen perched on their blankets, listening to the band's first performance of the year. The program contained an interesting variety of numbers—in fact, it included everything from "Deep Purple" to the "Totem Pole," and because of this wide variety, there was some number to please everyone.

The fellows in Hills Hall may not have done much studying while the band played outside the north entrance, but those who were there enjoyed the concert very much. We all wish the best of luck and success to our band throughout the year.

1963 Glimmerglass Football Picks

(Photographer—Denver Thompson)

TOM LIGHTLE

Tim Spackey

This week, in anticipation of the soon approaching Homecoming weekend and with it the Homecoming football game, the Glimmerglass is featuring six of the outstanding Olivet gridders. For those of you who might be unaware of the fact that we play football here (for the crowds have not been too large), this writer wishes to make this statement: we do play football at ONC—tackle even; there are two teams called the Upperclassmen and Freshmen; of the three games played the Upperclassmen own two victories with the third contest ending in a 6-6 tie.

Now let's get back to the original purpose of this article. We are featuring three players from both squads: for the Upperclassmen, Ed Nash, Keith Burba, and Tom Lightle; and for the Freshmen, Jim Hodges, Carlton Moore, and John Lee.

Ed Nash, a sophomore, is the quarterback for the Upperclass gridders. He is a graduate of Bradley-Bourbonnais High School where he established quite a name for himself in athletics, especially football. Ed lettered three years as an offensive quarterback and defensive line backer. As a senior he set the school passing record and was listed on the high school All-American team.

Nash also played basketball and baseball, lettering two and four years respectively. During his sophomore and senior years he led the baseball squad in hitting.

Keith Burba hails from Kenton, Ohio where he was a 10-letter man at Kenton Senior High School. He was awarded three letters each in football and basketball, and earned four as a first baseman for the Kenton hardball contingent.

Keith received recognition as an outstanding end during his senior year on the gridiron by being named to the all-conference team in the tough Western Buckeye League. Active also in school affairs, he was President of his senior class.

Burba is one of the top-flight ends for the Upperclassmen, and is the favorite receiver of quarterback Nash.

Tom Lightle, another Ohio griddier, mans one of the tackle positions on the Upperclass squad. Tom graduated from Wapakoneta Senior High School. While there he achieved top standing in two sports, football and baseball.

On the gridiron he lettered three years and as a senior was named as an all-Lima area (this includes four conferences) tackle. That year the Wapak footballers were champions of the Western Buckeye League with a 9-0 record.

In baseball, Lightle had the distinction of winning more games than any other pitcher in Wapakoneta high school in the last 10 years.

Known as "Brahma" to his teammates, Jim Hodges plays a lot of tackle for the Frosh. A graduate of University High School in Normal, Illinois, Jim distinguished himself there in three different sports.

A three-letter man in football, he led his team in tackles and was named to the all-star squad of the Corn Belt Conference in his senior year.

Earning two letters as a forward on the basketball team, Jim was listed on the CBC second string as a senior.

In track, "Brahma" went to state in his junior and senior years, throwing the discus. As a junior he finished fifth in the state meet with a toss of 155 feet 2 inches. His best throw as a senior was over 160 feet. Jim holds the discus record in the Corn Belt Conference.

Carlton Moore, the Freshmen's charging fullback, comes to ONC from Glenwood High School in New Boston, Ohio. Carlton was known best in high school for his gridiron ability. He holds three football letters, each one, however, coming at a different position—guard, tackle, and fullback. As a fullback during his senior year he averaged 5.9 yards per carry.

Moore earned three letters on the baseball diamond as a

Kickin' It Around

When the leaves begin to fall, the Olivet campus shifts into high gear in preparation for Homecoming. This year, Homecoming looks to be bigger and better than it has ever been in the past.

There is a double treat in store for you sports enthusiasts. First, on Friday night at the Bradley-Bourbonnais High School gym, there will be the traditional basketball game, pitting the purple and gold "O" Club tigers against the old, old alumni!

Second, on Saturday afternoon, the upperclassmen will again take on the challenging Frosh in the final football game of the season. If the action is as fast and furious as it was in the last game, in which the Frosh tied the upperclassmen, there should be more than enough excitement for the gridiron third baseman and right fielder. During his sophomore year he was a member of the Glenwood basketball team which ranked second in the state.

John Lee, a graduate of Sterling Township High School, Sterling, Illinois, was an eight-letter winner in high school. Lettering two years in football as an end, he received honorable mention in the North Central Illinois Conference as a senior.

A three-letter winner in baseball, Lee pitched and played first base, batting .383 during his last year.

Also a track man, John ran the 440, mile relay, and high jumped. His best time in the 440 was :53.7 during his junior year.

John holds down the offensive and defensive end's spot on the yearling squad.

fan. So! Come on, you upperclassmen! Let's stay undefeated!

One of the first Homecoming events (before the alumni arrive on campus) will be the all-school bonfire sponsored by the "O" Club. This year's bonfire, due to its new location behind Nesbitt Hall, is expected to be twice as successful as last year's—and it was good!

This year's program will be highlighted by several outstanding features. Among them are: Presentation of the Homecoming Queen's court; introduction by the band of the Olivet fight song written by Professor Hopkins; and announcement and presentation of the '63 "O" Club basketball players (the boys who are going to romp those old, old alumni). In addition to the above, watch out for that wild Olivet tiger, who will be prowling in the crowd. He can hardly wait to get his teeth into the alumni, so beware his pugnacious manner! Helping us all through the program with their enthusiasm—and showing off their new outfits—will be the "O" Club cheerleaders. Climaxing the evening, as the fire begins to die, we will set the flames soaring with Joe Alumni. He will be tossed into the fire by the "O" Club basketball team with the supporting cheers of the cheerleaders and the mascot.

As an indication of our confidence, it is suggested

An Appeal For Women Athletes

How many times have you complained about the sports program at Olivet? It could be made a lot better if you girls would get out and back your societies by participation. This year there is a well-rounded variety of sports for every type of individual ranging from basketball to table tennis.

Although softball is finished for this year, basketball, badminton, table tennis, tennis (singles and mixed doubles), volleyball, and volleyball are still coming up. You may not be the most coordinated person in the world, but in the program now engaged at Olivet, enthusiasm and regular participation are just as important as skill.

that all the students come to the bonfire wearing their sweatshirts backwards and continue wearing them that way until victory over the alumni is won.

It is sincerely hoped that all the Homecoming activities will be enthusiastically supported by all the students on campus. Let's try to make the alumni's stay on campus an enjoyable one—one that will renew their pride in their Alma Mater. This will be realized if you make them welcome and maintain a good spirit.
